

Working Women's Charter

Working Women's Charter Seminar

Wednesday 27 May 2009, 8.30 am to 5pm

AUT Conference Centre (WA224), Business School, Cnr Mayoral Drive and Wakefield Street

For a celebration, a history and action plan

It is now 30 years since the Working Women's Charter was adopted by the Federation of Labour Conference as policy. It had an immediate effect on conditions of work for women and on women's participation in unions. Join the Auckland Labour History Group on Wednesday 27 May at a seminar which will:

- Establish an historical record of the Working Women's Charter 1980s campaign
- Celebrate that achievement
- Take unfinished business from the Charter forward into the economic challenges we are facing. Globally, women are likely to be hard hit by the changes.

Anyone is welcome to attend. We are hoping that it will also be a union occasion so that any action plan can be taken forward into the whole union movement.

"Generous sponsorship for this seminar has been received from the Auckland University of Technology, the New Zealand Educational Institute, the Tertiary Education Union, the Post Primary Teachers' Association, ALL of New Zealand, and the Public Service Association."
